Securing our Future
 By Nauman Abbasi

In one of the toughest economic times in American History, people are now understanding the value of an Education. There is an organization that deserves to be mentioned, it is called The Dollar a Day Scholarship Fund. This organization aims to encourage Muslim American youth to work to bridge the gap between Muslims and Non-Muslims. Sound financial planning is essential to getting the most out of life and D.A.D. has developed a network of resources for students and young professionals.

The vision is simple: to strengthen the community by advancing post-graduate education, professional development, leadership, and public service amongst Muslim students in America. The Organization achieves this goal by raising as little as a dollar a day - approximately $30 per month or $365 per year. The people behind this organization are determined to turn this into a landmark foundation that will one day pave the way for even more Muslim American Foundations. Muslim Americans are an integral part of local communities and the American society. With approximately 40% of the Muslim American population between the ages of 18 - 29, Muslim youth have the potential to shape the community in profoundly beneficial ways as they determine and begin to develop their career paths. We hope to see this organization grow and prosper; it is up to us to support organizations like this because it will help secure resources for our future generations.
